

CREATION FEST

COVID-19 Statement from Trustees

At Creation Fest, your safety and wellbeing are paramount to us - especially in light of the ongoing coronavirus pandemic. We are thankful to God that, at the time of writing, cases are reducing. We pray that this continues over coming weeks and months.

We know it is important to be both diligent and vigilant in our response to COVID-19. We are endeavouring to ensure that measures are in place to protect all of our staff, visitors, contributors and volunteers during Creation Fest 2021. We are fully committed to adhering to all UK Government guidelines and Cornwall Council's protocols throughout the event.

This may mean that we have to adapt to new guidelines as they emerge, and that our approach to the event, or some of the things that we are able to provide will be different to previous years. We ask for your understanding in this.

We will do our best to communicate regularly with staff, visitors, contributors and volunteers on any adaptations and look forward to seeing you at the festival. We're confident that it is going to be a great experience and we cannot wait to join together and celebrate the good news of the God who loves us.
